Sample board skills matrix

This example board matrix will help you record the skills, knowledge, understanding and experience of the whole trustee board. It is not intended to be an exhaustive list of matters you should consider, and the skills required will vary depending on the size and complexity of your scheme.

You should base your skills matrix on the objectives you've agreed in your business plan and think about the knowledge, skills and competencies your board will need to achieve them. You should also consider any upcoming exercises or projects which may require additional skills and experience, for example preparing for a change in law or a change in service provider.

Once you have identified the skills and experience you need, you should prioritise those which are essential for your board to effectively manage the scheme over the next year. You should also identify which are critical, which will help mitigate risks, which are essential for all trustees to meet and how others may be achieved by the collective board.

The trustees should assess themselves against the skills in this matrix to identify gaps, which can be addressed either through training, using advisers or gaining experience and expertise from a provider or employer in an advisory role. For example, you may consider inviting non-trustees from the business with a specific skill or experience to sit on a sub-committee, or appoint an adviser to work with you on a specific project for a limited period of time.
